

The Real Mother Goose

The Real Mother Goose is one of the larger collections of rhymes for children. It has wonderful pen and watercolor illustrations by Blanche Fisher Wright. This book was originally published in 1916. Here is a complete transcription.

The Real Mother Goose 1916-1966

IT IS A RARE YEAR in the publishing business that does not yield a new edition of Mother Goose verses, but here is one edition that has survived with fifty years of popularity to its credit. Now Blanche Fisher Wright's THE REAL MOTHER GOOSE is reissued in a special anniversary number for the delight of young children of this and forthcoming generations. That this particular collection of Mother Goose verses has endured is the more surprising considering the amazing variety of editions confronting a prospective buyer. Mother Goose appears with pictures in wild primary colors or pale pastels or blacks and whites. They may be realistic in style or modernistic or old fashioned, or even reproductions of ancient woodcuts. Mother Goose comes fat or thin, tall or small, with a large collection of verses or only a meager few. Why then, with such a variety of books to choose from, should this particular edition have persisted for fifty years? And why, for that matter, has an anonymous collection of ancient rhymes, familiarly known as Mother Goose, continued to delight generations of small fry from the eighteenth century to the present day? First, let's look at the history of the book.

Origins of Mother Goose

Although the verses are as British as plum pudding, the name, Mother Goose, actually made its way into England from France. Perrault's collection of eight famous folk tales in 1697 was called "Contes de ma mère l'Oye" or "Tales of Mother Goose," in short, tall tales or tales of make-believe. These stories were translated into English in 1729. But long after that, when John Newbery and his firm had discovered that such publications for children as their Little Pretty Pocket-Book were profitable, they decided to publish a collection of traditional verses and jingles. They gave it the appropriate nonsense name of Mother Goose's Melody. This 1791 Newbery edition is one of the rarest of rare books. It contained fifty-two verses, each with an amusing but irrelevant moral added, and each illustrated with a tiny woodcut. This small book concluded with the astonishing addition of sixteen songs from Shakespeare.

In the United States there were pirated editions of the Newbery Mother Goose, one with the picture of a sharp-nosed old crone addressing two children at her knees. After this Mother Goose has denounced all the critics of her ditties she concludes:

Fudge! I tell you that all their batterings can't deface my beauties, nor their wise pratings my wiser prattlings; and all imitators of my refreshing songs might as well try to write a new Billy Shakespeare as another Mother Goose--we two great poets were born together, and we shall go out of the world together.

*No, no, my Melodies will never die,
While nurses sing, or babies cry.*

A happy and truthful prophecy! An interesting outcome of the Newbery choice of "Mother Goose" as a title for these verses is that it was gradually lost to the famous folk tales which included such immortals as "Cinderella," "Sleeping Beauty" and other favorites, to become more or less permanently attached to this anonymous collection of nursery jingles, identified forevermore as Mother Goose.

Historical Significance of the Verses

There have been books and innumerable articles attaching historical significance to these verses. For example, they say that the "lady upon a white horse" was no less than the first Queen Elizabeth, and Miss Muffet was Mary Queen of Scots frightened by the spider, John Knox. Well, maybe so, but recent research gives small credence to these nebulous guesses. Occasionally, the name of a real person does appear, as Robin Hood or Jack Horner, but history is to be found chiefly in such English place names as Exeter, Gloucester, London Bridge, or in the street cries, old customs, songs, lullabies, games, and the like. These reflect the times and places in which these old jingles developed. Their language also reflects their ancient origin. Children accept "doth" and "thee" and "thou" without a question, but the candle riddle "Little Nancy Etticoat" may need explanation and so will those "Bell horses, bell horses, what time of day?" That is mere sound until the child sees a picture or learns about the huge town clocks where iron horses come prancing out on the stroke of the hour. Barring a few such hurdles, children accept the language and situations of these ancient ditties with placid enjoyment and few questions. Why?

The Ageless Charm of the Verses

The compelling music of these jingles is so ear-catching, children from eighteen months to six years and more will listen to them entranced when they are read aloud. Then, they begin to say them with the reader, and next, they are chanting them when they are alone, never missing a beat or a rhyme. The melodies of these verses may begin crudely with a tumpity-tump sort of beat, but there are also some charming lyrics in Mother Goose collections such as "Daffy-down-dilly," "I saw a ship a-sailing," and others.

The melody and movement of the verses also enhance the action. Everything and everyone seems to be in motion. Jack jumps over the candlestick, the dish runs away with the spoon, a cat comes fiddling out of the barn, and there is a fearless old woman tossed up in a basket "seventeen times high as the moon." No wonder children like these verses. Here is life on the move.

Next to their ear-catching tunes, skipping, hopping, galloping rhythms, and lively action these verses have an inexhaustible variety. There is a crowded gallery of people everyone will remember for the rest of his life--Old King Cole, Jack and Jill, Tommy Tucker, the Queen of Hearts, Jack Horner, and all the rest. The story poems, games, verses about animals make an immediate appeal, and children of five and six enjoy the alphabet and the counting rhymes. Few books offer such diverse entertainment.

Also it is the sheer high spirits of these old jingles, their fun and nonsense that lift the spirits. Children laugh at the cow jumping over the moon, at Peter's wife sitting cozily in a pumpkin shell, at the funny sounds of higgledy, piggledy, sing a song of sixpence, or Peter's peck of pickled peppers. In short they laugh at absurd situations, the grotesque, the funny sounds and the bouncy rhymes and rhythms of the verses.

Finally, it is certainly the illustrations which have always accompanied these old verses that help to spellbind each new generation of children. This brings us to this happy celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of a favorite American edition, illustrated by Blanche Fisher Wright.

The Real Mother Goose

This is a large book, not too large, just good lap size, which means baby and book held comfortably on the lap. Large, clear type and large, clear pictures make it an admirable edition for classroom use. All the illustrations are in color and there are thirty-one full-page pictures, with no distracting details. The sheer drama of "The old woman tossed up in a basket," or the astonished King when "four and twenty blackbirds" come chirping out of his pie, these and many others are going to be remembered. On pages where there are several verses, there may also be as many as three or four bright pictures. There is some humor in these illustrations, but for the most part, they are sober interpretations of the verses. This is a boon to the young child, because the pictures actually furnish him with clues to the meanings of the words. Incidentally, this is a large collection with over three hundred verses. These are some of the reasons why, for the youngest children, THE- REAL MOTHER GOOSE is a fine introduction to this collection of wise and witty traditional verses.

So take this handsome book home or to school with you and have fun with it. Read and reread these ditties to your children. Encourage them to speak them with you or alone, savoring their rhymes and rhythms to the full. As a result, children will know more words and speak them more crisply and clearly than they would have without Mother Goose. Above all, they will carry with them some feeling for the fun, freshness and sheer delight of poetry. All this because of Mother Goose.

LITTLE BO-PEEP

Little Bo-Peep has lost her sheep,
And can't tell where to find them;
Leave them alone, and they'll come home,
And bring their tails behind them.

Little Bo-Peep fell fast asleep,
And dreamt she heard them bleating;
But when she awoke, she found it a joke,
For still they all were fleeing.

Then up she took her little crook,
Determined for to find them;
She, found them indeed, but it made her heart bleed,
For they'd left all their tails behind 'em!

It happened one day, as Bo-peep did stray
Unto a meadow hard by--
There she espied their tails, side by side,
All hung on a tree to dry.

She heaved a sigh and wiped her eye,
And over the hillocks she raced;
And tried what she could, as a shepherdess should,
That each tail should be properly placed.

LITTLE BOY BLUE

Little Boy Blue, come, blow your horn!
The sheep's in the meadow, the cow's
in the corn.
Where's the little boy that looks after the sheep?
Under the haystack, fast asleep!

RAIN

Rain, rain, go away,
Come again another day;
Little Johnny wants to play.

THE CLOCK

There's a neat little clock,--
In the schoolroom it stands,--
And it points to the time
With its two little hands.

And may we, like the clock,
Keep a face clean and bright,
With hands ever ready
To do what is right.

WINTER

Cold and raw the north wind doth blow,
Bleak in the morning early;
All the hills are covered with snow,
And winter's now come fairly.

FINGERS AND TOES

Every lady in this land
Has twenty nails, upon each hand
Five, and twenty on hands and feet:
All this is true, without deceit.

A SEASONABLE SONG

Piping hot, smoking hot.
What I've got
You have not.
Hot gray pease, hot, hot, hot;
Hot gray pease, hot.

DAME TROT AND HER CAT

Dame Trot and her cat
Led a peaceable life,
When they were not troubled
With other folks' strife.

When Dame had her dinner
Pussy would wait,
And was sure to receive
A nice piece from her plate.

THREE CHILDREN ON THE ICE

Three children sliding on the ice
Upon a summer's day,
As it fell out, they all fell in,
The rest they ran away.

Oh, had these children been at school,
Or sliding on dry ground,
Ten thousand pounds to one penny
They had not then been drowned.

Ye parents who have children dear,
And ye, too, who have none,
If you would keep them safe abroad
Pray keep them safe at home.

CROSS PATCH

Cross patch, draw the latch,
Sit by the fire and spin;
Take a cup and drink it up,
Then call your neighbors in.

THE OLD WOMAN UNDER A HILL

There was an old woman
Lived under a hill;
And if she's not gone,
She lives there still.

TWEEDLE-DUM AND TWEEDLE-DE E

Tweedle-dum and Tweedle-dee
Resolved to have a battle,
For Tweedle-dum said Tweedle-dee
Had spoiled his nice new rattle.

Just then flew by a monstrous crow,
As big as a tar barrel,
Which frightened both the heroes so,
They quite forgot their quarrel.

OH, DEAR!

Dear, dear! what can the matter be?
Two old women got up in an appletree;
One came down, and the other stayed till Saturday.

OLD MOTHER GOOSE

Old Mother Goose, when
She wanted to wander,
Would ride through the air
On a very fine gander.

LITTLE JUMPING JOAN

Here am I, little jumping Joan,
When nobody's with me
I'm always alone.

PAT-A-CAKE

Pat-a-cake, pat-a-cake,
Baker's man!
So I do, master,
As fast as I can.

Pat it, and prick it,
And mark it with T,
Put it in the oven
For Tommy and me.

MONEY AND THE MARE

"Lend me thy mare to ride a mile."
"She is lamed, leaping over a stile."

"Alack! and I must keep the fair!
I'll give thee money for thy mare."

"Oh, oh! say you so?
Money will make the mare to go!"

ROBIN REDBREAST

Little Robin Redbreast sat upon a tree,
Up went Pussy-Cat, down went he,
Down came Pussy-Cat, away Robin ran,
Says little Robin Redbreast: "Catch me if you can!"

Little Robin Redbreast jumped upon a spade,
Pussy-Cat jumped after him, and then he was afraid.
Little Robin chirped and sang, and what did Pussy say?
Pussy-Cat said: "Mew, mew, mew," and Robin flew away.

A MELANCHOLY SONG

Trip upon trenchers,
And dance upon dishes,
My mother sent me for some barm, some barm;
She bid me go lightly,
And come again quickly,
For fear the young men should do me some harm.

Yet didn't you see, yet didn't you see,
What naughty tricks they put upon me?

They broke my pitcher
And spilt the water,
And huffed my mother,
And chid her daughter,

And kissed my sister instead of me.

JACK

Jack be nimble, Jack be quick,
Jack jump over the candle-stick.

GOING TO ST. IVES

As I was going to St. Ives
I met a man with seven wives.
Every wife had seven sacks,
Every sack had seven cats,
Every cat had seven kits.
Kits, cats, sacks, and wives,
How many were going to St. Ives?

THIRTY DAYS HATH SEPTEMBER

Thirty days hath September,
April, June, and November;
February has twenty-eight alone,
All the rest have thirty-one,
Excepting leap-year, that's the time
When February's days are twenty-nine.

BABY DOLLY

Hush, baby, my dolly, I pray you don't cry,
And I'll give you some bread, and some milk by-and-by;
Or perhaps you like custard, or, maybe, a tart,
Then to either you're welcome, with all my heart.

BEES

A swarm of bees in May
Is worth a load of hay;
A swarm of bees in June
Is worth a silver spoon;
A swarm of bees in July
Is not worth a fly.

COME OUT TO PLAY

Girls and boys, come out to play,

The moon doth shine as bright as day;
Leave your supper, and leave your sleep,
And come with your playfellows into the street.
Come with a whoop, come with a call,
Come with a good will or not at all.
Up the ladder and down the wall,
A half-penny roll will serve us all.
You find milk, and I'll find flour,
And we'll have a pudding in half an hour.

IF WISHES WERE HORSES

If wishes were horses, beggars would ride.
If turnips were watches, I would wear one by my side.
And if "ifs" and "ands"
Were pots and pans,
There'd be no work for tinkers!

TO MARKET

To
fat pig,

market, to market, to buy a
Home again, home again,
jiggety jig.
To market, to market, to buy a fat hog,
Home again, home again,
jiggety jog.
To market, to market, to buy a plum bun,
Home again, home again,
market is done.

OLD CHAIRS TO MEND

If I'd as much money as I could spend,
I never would cry old chairs to mend;
Old chairs to mend, old chairs to mend;
I never would cry old chairs to mend.
If I'd as much money as I could tell,
I never would cry old clothes to sell;
Old clothes to sell, old clothes to sell;
I never would cry old clothes to sell.

ROBIN AND RICHARD

Robin and Richard were two pretty men,
They lay in bed till the clock struck ten;
Then up starts Robin and looks at the sky,
"Oh, brother Richard, the sun's very high!
You go before, with the bottle and bag,
And I will come after on little Jack Nag."

A MAN AND A MAID

There was a little man,
Who wooed a little maid,
And he said, "Little maid, will you wed, wed, wed?
I have little more to say,
So will you, yea or nay,

For least said is soonest mended-ded, ded, ded."

The little maid replied,
"Should I be your little bride,
Pray what must we have for to eat, eat, eat?
Will the flame that you're so rich in Light a fire in the kitchen?
Or the little god of love turn the spit, spit, spit?"

HERE GOES MY LORD

Here goes my lord
A trot, a trot, a trot, a trot,
Here goes my lady
A canter, a canter, a canter, a canter!

Here goes my young master
Jockey-hitch, jockey-hitch, jockey-hitch, jockey-hitch!
Here goes my young miss
An amble, an amble, an amble, an amble!

The footman lags behind to tippie ale and wine,
And goes gallop, a gallop, a gallop, to make up his time.

THE CLEVER HEN

I had a little hen, the prettiest ever seen,
She washed me the dishes and kept the house clean;
She went to the mill to fetch me some flour,
She brought it home in less than an hour;
She baked me my bread, she brewed me my ale,
She sat by the fire and told many a fine tale.

TWO

BIRDS

There were two birds sat on a stone,
 Fa, la, la, la, la, de;
 One flew away, and then there was one,
 Fa, la, la, la, la, de;
 The other bird flew after,
 And then there was none,
 Fa, la, la, la, la, de;
 And so the stone
 Was left alone,
 Fa la, la, la, la, de.

LEG OVER LEG

Leg over leg,
 As the dog went to Dover;
 When he came to a stile,
 Jump, he went over.

LUCY LOCKET

Lucy Locket lost her pocket,
 Kitty Fisher found it;
 Nothing in it, nothing in it,
 But the binding round it.

WHEN JENNY WREN WAS YOUNG

'Twas once upon a time, when Jenny Wren was young,
 So daintily she danced and so prettily she sung,
 Robin Redbreast lost his heart, for he was a gallant bird.
 So he doffed his hat to Jenny Wren, requesting to be heard.

"Oh, dearest Jenny Wren, if you will but be mine,

You shall feed on cherry pie and drink new currant wine,
I'll dress you like a goldfinch or any peacock gay,
So, dearest Jen, if you'll be mine, let us appoint the day."

Jenny blushed behind her fan and thus declared her mind:
"Since, dearest Bob, I love you well, I'll take your offer kind.

Cherry pie is very nice and so is currant wine,
But I must wear my plain brown gown and never go too fine."

BARBER

Barber, barber, shave a pig.
How many hairs will make a wig?

Four and twenty; that's enough.
Give the barber a pinch of snuff.

THE FLYING PIG

Dickory, dickory, dare,
The pig flew up in the air;
The man in brown soon brought him down,
Dickory, dickory, dare.

SOLOMON GRUNDY

Solomon Grundy,
Born on a Monday,
Christened on Tuesday,
Married on Wednesday,
Took ill on Thursday,
Worse on Friday,
Died on Saturday,
Buried on Sunday.
This is the end
Of Solomon Grundy.

HUSH-A-BYE

Hush-a-bye, baby, on the tree top!

When the wind blows the cradle will rock;

When the bough breaks the cradle will fall;
Down will come baby, bough, cradle and all.

BURNIE BEE

Burnie bee, burnie bee,
Tell me when your wedding be?
If it be to-morrow day,
Take your wings and fly away.

THREE WISE MEN OF GOTHAM

Three wise men of Gotham
Went to sea in a bowl;
If the bowl had been stronger
My song had been longer.

THE HUNTER OF REIGATE

A man went a-hunting at Reigate,
And wished to leap over a high gate.
Says the owner, "Go round,
With your gun and your hound,
For you never shall leap over my gate."

LITTLE POLLY FLINDERS

Little Polly Flinders
Sat among the cinders
Warming her pretty little toes;
Her mother came and caught her,

Whipped her little daughter
For spoiling her nice new clothes.

RIDE AWAY, RIDE AWAY

Ride away, ride away,
Johnny shall ride,
And he shall have pussy-cat
Tied to one side;
And he shall have little dog
Tied to the other,
And Johnny shall ride
To see his grandmother.

PIPPEN HILL

As I was going up Pippen Hill
Pippen Hill was dirty;
There I met a pretty Miss,
And she dropped me a curtsy.

Little Miss, pretty Miss,
Blessings light upon you;
If I had half-a-crown a day,
I'd spend it all upon you

PUSSY-CAT AND QUEEN

"Pussy-cat, pussy-cat,
Where have you been?"
"I've been to London
To look at the Queen."

"Pussy-cat, pussy-cat,

Says Simple Simon to the pieman,
"Indeed, I have not any."

Simple Simon went a-fishing
For to catch a whale;
All the water he could find
Was in his mother's pail!

He pricked his fingers very much,
Which made poor Simon whistle.

He went to catch a dicky bird,

LITTLE JENNY WREN

Little Jenny Wren fell sick,
Upon a time;

In came Robin Redbreast
And brought her cake and wine.

"Eat well of my cake, Jenny,
Drink well of my wine."

"Thank you, Robin, kindly,
You shall be mine."

Jenny she got well,
And stood upon her feet,
And told Robin plainly
She loved him not a bit.

Robin being angry,
Hopped upon a twig,
Saying, "Out upon you! Fie upon you!"

Bold-faced jig!"

THE OLD WOMAN AND THE PEDLAR

There was an old woman, as I've heard tell,
She went to market her eggs for to sell;
She went to market all on a market-day,
And she fell asleep on the King's highway.

There came by a pedlar whose name was Stout,
He cut her petticoats all round about;
He cut her petticoats up to the knees,
Which made the old woman to shiver and freeze.

When the little old woman first did wake,
She began to shiver and she began to shake;
She began to wonder and she began to cry,
"Lauk a mercy on me, this can't be I!

"But if I be I, as I hope it be,
I've a little dog at home, and he'll know me;
If it be I, he'll wag his little tail,
And if it be not I, he'll loudly bark and wail."

Home went the little woman all in the dark;
Up got the little dog, and he began to bark;
He began to bark, so she began to cry,

And the masts were made of gold.

The four-and-twenty sailors
That stood between the decks,
Were four-and-twenty white mice
With chains about their necks.

Shut the door after you,
And never be chid.
